UPDATING REGULATORY DOCUMENTS

Are your regulatory documents up to date?

Updating means bringing your company's regulatory documents in line with the state fund of regulatory documents by incorporating the amendments and corrections published monthly in the Information Index of Standards and annually in the Index of Regulatory Documents.

Using documents that have not been updated in your company's operations is strictly prohibited.

ST RK 1.48-2010 "Procedure for Making Amendments to Standards"

How it works

1. Agreement. You sign an agreement with the library.
2. Request. Under the agreement, you submit the documents listed in your request for review.
3. Review. Library specialists check whether the documents are in force in Kazakhstan and whether any amendments or corrections have been issued.
4. Up to date. We issue a certificate confirming that the documents are up to date as of the review date.
5. Changes needed. If amendments or corrections are missing, or a document is no longer in force, we issue a status certificate with recommendations on which amendments, corrections or new documents to obtain.
6. Result. Once all issues are resolved, the documents are returned to your company with a certificate confirming they are up to date as of a specific date.

Think ahead — make the right decision.
